If the vessel is moved during storage, notification must be given to the Norwegian Customs office which granted permission for storage. Modifications and repairs can be made to the vessel during the application procedure for temporary storage. If the vessel is to continue being used in Norway after being taken out of storage, it can be used by the applicant up until the date stated under "How long the vessel is to remain in storage". The applicant can seek to extend the re-export period by up to one year. A new application must be sent to the Norwegian Customs Service before the export date stated. The Norwegian Customs Service cannot be held liable financially or otherwise for the vessel during the storage period (e.g. theft, damage etc.)
